MORE COSSA. K BRUTALITIES

(From Our Very Special Representative.)

Another gallant demonstration of the Suffragettes took place last night, as usual

outside the House of Commons, which was marked, again as usual, by methods of barbarity on the part of the Police force.

For several hours the stern conflict raged,

until the last of the brave sisterhood,

literally borne down by numbers, was removed pluckily shrieking defiance still to the portals of the Police outposts, where,

with that callous indifference to the sufferings and the rights of women which seems to characterize the behaviour of the Caligulas in power, they were detained for nearly half an hour without even being offered a cup of tea. I have no doubt that this statement will be denied, but I have it on the best authority.

Further, one lady, who in the midst had been deprived of her powderpuff, on remarking that she intended to step across the road to buy another, was peremptorily refused permission. I was fortunately able to obtain an interview with the victim of the latest outrage, Mrs. Katarine Smith, of Peckham. The lady was, naturally, in a state of nervous prostration at her own house, where she was undergoing medical attention for the injuries suffered by her complexion, but with the heroic resolution

of a fighter for the cause she roused herself

sufficiently to make a statement on being assured that her confidence would immediately be given the widest publicity.

"When I reached the station," she said,

"to which I was supported by two

cowardly minions of the law on either side,

I found that my hat had been disarranged,

the feather being crushed and half a yard

of tulle at one end and a yard hopelessly ruined, and that the contents of my reticule had been pilfered. I make no charge against the police; no doubt

these misguided men, if it is still possible to call them such, were only doing what they imagined to be their duty. I also admit that as the reticule has lost its snap,

its contents, if brought into contact with such an unguisely object as a policeman's helmet, may possibly fall out. I wish to be absolutely fair. But what I do complain of is that when the police had an opportunity of atoning for their brutality

they ruthlessly refused to take it. I was stepping out of the station when a burly constable barred the way. I explained firmly but temperately that I wished to go to a shop to purchase an article necessary to my toilet and my personal comfort. His only reply was to shut the door and put his back against it. On recovering his breath after the protestations I felt it my duty to make to him, he ordered me with audacious insolence to go away and sit down.

The actual words he used were, to the best of my recollection, 'You go away and sit

your head in a bag.' The ignorant mon-was, of course, alluding to my reticule. He was, no doubt, quite on oath that he was unaware that at the time he made this remark it was empty. I believe a question will be asked with reference to this outrage

in the House to-morrow. I shall, of course, go to prison," concluded the heroine with undaunted spirit.

Mr. Katarine Smith, overpowered by the emotions of the day, had been obliged to retire to his bedroom, but even there he found strength to show his sympathy for the cause by promising ten pounds to the funds of the agitation for every day his helpless was torn from the bosom of her family.

It is these atrocities, before which the horrors of the Russian capital pale, that show the wanton inhumanity of our police

methods, and illumine the dauntless spirit of the heroines of the cause.

To return to the grisly scenes of last night's battlefield. The ladies had met,

as usual, at the Clarendon Hall, and thence marched with linked arms through the streets to continue their agitation in the lobbies of the House.

The ever-armed Cossacks on point duty

held up the traffic in the main thoroughfares to let them pass, but even so the march through the streets was not unattended by danger. At my moment any one of the devoted little army might have skidded on a bit of banana peel. But not one of them fell out. On arriving at Palace Yard a living wall of blue was lined up two deep, blocking their further progress. Though it was obvious that the heroines wanted, in pursuance of their rights as peaceful citizens, to pass into the House, not a myrmidon moved. They trembled, but stood fast. The women with undaunted spirit threw themselves against this inhuman barrier.

The shambles that ensued make one's ink run cold. Hats were disarranged,

hair-pins fell clattering to the ground, excessive frowns were torn to tatters, gloves

were ruined beyond repair, umbrellas stuck

stuffed with the sound of pistol shots.

Let us draw a veil over the horrors of that scene.

To spare the feelings of my readers and to safeguard against exaggeration, I shall only relate the harrowing incidents for which I can vouch with my own eyes.

One respected leader was only engaged in scratching as much of a cowardly police-

man's nose as she could reach, when the monster did not hesitate to seize her wrist in a constricting and brutal grip.

In another case a merry little Lancashire lass was plucking a kicking elderly assassin's obstructive shins, when the vulture actually lifted her up in his arms and carried her like a baby to the police station. Strong men shook with emotion at the sight.

Even their apologists cannot but admit that the Cosacks lost their temper. One burly ruffian was deliberately blocking a lady's path. With cynical brutality he never made any attempt to get out of her way though she ran at him three times with her umbrella.

"How dare you obstruct me!" she remonstrated indignantly. "Can't you see I'm a lady who—"

"Then why can't you behave as such?" exclaimed the autocrat as he halted her to the police station, though not even a policeman could pretend that that was the direction in which she wished to proceed.

In the meantime another little band of heroines, led by Mrs. Blitherton, ran round the Abbey and endeavored to reach St. Stephen's entrance across the road. Instantly forces of janissaries started in pursuit. Mrs. Blitherton caught her heel in her skirt and fell to the ground. The police positively raised her by brute force to her feet and removed her from the scene of action.

But outside the porch the most awful scene of all occurred. Unable to dislodge the ladies from the railings by any other methods, a regiment of three mounted troopers charged the women as fast as their horses could walk. They actually rode on to the pavement. No one was safe. At any moment one of the devoted women might have had her tender toes trodden on by the ruthless hoofs of the cavalry. Even the Cosacks themselves turned pale as they watched their horses' round. If anyone had let a mouse loose at that critical moment a panic might have ensued, and no one could have told what would have happened.

As it is, the terrible injuries of the survivors attest the ordeal through which the women passed. But the cause goes marching on.

THE COLONIAL CONFERENCE.

In a few days the representatives of the self-governing Colonies meet Lord Elgin in London. In many ways it is a pity that the Crown Colonies cannot have gentlemen who are conversant with their requirements to speak for them at this important conference. There are many things which, without any disrespect to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, we think Crown Colonists could well express their views upon. The Natal and Newfoundland incidents have shown that even self-governing Colonies with representatives in London find that the Juggernaut of Imperial policy—when guided by a Liberal Government—passes callously over all that they hold most dear. New Zealand and the Commonwealth of Australia found that the government of the New Hebrides, in which they are both deeply interested, was arranged between the British Colonial Office and France without any sort of reference to them. These things show that there is distinct need for a conference such as that which is shortly to meet. They also show how helpless are the Crown Colonies. No man in his senses could doubt that Lord Elgin is honestly and honourably doing the best for the outlying dominions of his King. But unfortunately he has an encompassing him the traditions of his party, a party which even yet has not quite abandoned the belief that the best thing for Great Britain would be the dropping off of the Colonies. That sentiment in its crude form would hardly be voiced now-a-days even by the most daring Little Englander, but all though unexpressed it makes its influence felt. But we can only accept things as they are, and although it will be many years probably before we have any real voice in our own government we may very properly take an intelligent interest in matters which concern our brethren in the larger Colonies who have the privilege of selecting their own Governments. Australia is bringing forward one particularly important matter at the Colonial Conference. Mr. Deakin, the Prime Minister of the Commonwealth, is to propose the establishment of a permanent Imperial Council, including amongst its members ex officio Ministers of the Colonies, which should be kept in touch with questions affecting the dependencies, thus maintaining continuity of information. The particulars of any questions to be brought forward would be forwarded to the Prime Ministers of the various self-governing Colonies. He will also propose that there should be a permanent secretarial staff, the expenses to be paid on a population basis. The Commonwealth is also of opinion that the principle of preferential trade should be reaffirmed so that preferences granted to Great Britain should also be granted to other parts of the Empire. Also it will be proposed that there should be a final court of appeal for the Empire in substitution for the House of Lords and the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. These proposals all merit consideration. The permanent Imperial Council, if it is established, will prevent the recurrence of the dangerous disputes which have imperilled the relations of the Motherland and the Colonies recently. Every patriotic Briton will wish the Conference well and hope that its labours will make for permanent harmony within the Empire.

A large number of people who witnessed the Volunteer Inspection on Saturday last were agreeably surprised at the workmanlike appearance presented by the Corps, the large turnout, and by the manner in which the various evolutions were carried out. The Mounted Troop, in particular, elicited admiration. The ponies gave evidence of being exceedingly well-trained and their riders handled them well. The march past—the saluting base, where His Excellency Major General Broadwood stood, was well done, the Artillery Corps with the maxim guns making a good showing. This branch exhibited considerable skill in handling the maxims. They wheeled them round smartly, brought them into action with celerity, took the wheels off and mounted the gun on its tripod, replaced the wheels, limbered up, and dashed away again like unto the manner born. They went through these manoeuvres several times, giving a practical demonstration of their knowledge. The day was a close, muggy one, and the Volunteers felt it, but while on parade it apparently affected them a little. The General took a keen interest in the work and afterwards congratulated the Corps. His praise was not profuse, however. What he had seen was creditable, he said, but he was waiting until he saw the men in the field alongside of the regulars before he begins to criticise them. On the whole the inspection was extremely satisfactory and the large attendance at Causeway Bay must have been flattering to the officers and the men in the ranks.

Admiral Li has been laying his views about the inefficiency of the present arrangements for the effectual policing of the waters of the delta of the Canton River before the Viceroy. The criticism is sure enough and has pierced the defects of the present measures, which though they may have been possessed of virtue ages ago, are comparatively valueless to-day. The present guard-boats are condemned from keel to truck and every part of their fighting equipment is also effectually measured up and described as worthless. Everybody who knows these boats is aware that they are almost as useless for the purpose which they are supposed to serve as a duck would be for swimming were it robbed of its webbed feet. What the critic suggests is that the whole of the antiquated boats be done away with and that instead there be supplied a small number of swiftly moving steam pinaces. These would be a much better means of defence than what is now relied upon. Of course the trouble is funds. The Viceroy listened in a friendly spirit to the criticism and appreciated the good that would follow were these improvements effected; others, too, who frequent and get their living upon the waters of the delta, would rejoice to see something done, but for the hour it appears money is needed for many things, and as money does not come into the coffers of the Provincial Treasury upon the waving of a wand, the workers in the delta are likely to see many moons pass away before an adequate police force guards the waters.

A correspondent writes us on the publication of the Observatory Commission's report and we have much pleasure in giving his remarks. He says: The belated report of the typhoon inquiry which appears in the Government Gazette is somewhat interesting in view of the divergent statements made by the few witnesses who appeared before the Committee. Captain Roach of the s.s. "Haitan" was at Swatow on the morning of the typhoon, and his barometer gave no warning. Captain Hodgins, of the s.s. "Haiching," left Swatow the previous day, presumably the evening, knew of the typhoon and advised a friend to be on his guard. Captain Outerbridge maintained that warning could have been hoisted at 6 a.m. on the morning of the typhoon, and Captain Unsworth agrees with him. However Captain Outerbridge did not consider it sufficiently important to leave the shore for his steamer until 8.45 a.m. On the other hand we have Lieutenant Butlerworth at 8 a.m. ordering his ship to be alongside the "Tamar" at 8.30, and that torpedo boat No. 38 was alongside the "Tamar" at 8.5 a.m. under orders to proceed to D'Aguiar telegraph station. Monsieur Liebert, the French Consul, felt on Sunday the 16th we were going to have a typhoon, and that from that day the sky was grey with thick cloud in the West. The Observatory on the same date at 4 p.m. observed blue sky without cloud. As an observer in a small way I can assure Monsieur Liebert that the Observatory record is correct, but the exceptional clearness of the sky led me to believe that a disturbance was probable. Even on the 17th Monsieur Liebert is wrong in stating that we had thick cloud in the West, as a matter of fact, although I see no statement by the Observatory regarding cloud on that date, the day was cloudy but not what would be called thick cloud, nor of that formation which generally precedes a storm. I might go further and state that even up to 7.30 a.m. on the 18th there was no cloud indication that a typhoon was close upon us. I notice that Mr. Doherty prefers to call the storm a tornado. Call it any name you like, it certainly was a different class of storm to that which we are accustomed to in these waters, and from the evidence at the disposal of the Committee it appears that the Observatory could not have given earlier warning.

LOCAL AND COAST NEWS.

The English mail of the 23rd February was delivered in London on the 23rd instant.

The gentry at Paoing are proposing to start a Municipal Council there, following the example of the Chinese Municipal Council at Shanghai.

Grand Secretary Lu Chuan-lin, together with Peking officials that are natives of Chihli, Shantung and Kiangsu, has issued a joint memorial for permission to build the Tientsin-Chinkiang Railway.

Owing to the enormous expense of carrying out the reform of administration as well as improving educational and police affairs in Chihli Province, Viceroy Yuan Shih-kai has asked for Imperial instructions as to which of them should be carried out first.

A Well-merited Fine.
Tan To was on the look-out for some cheap meat, but the vigilance of watchmen was too much for him. Knowing that diseased cattle, unfit for consumption, were usually buried in a piece of land at Hungshui he watched his opportunity to secure a fine pig which had been buried. Three hours after the interment Tan To, armed with digging implements, started operations, but he was caught in the act and was marched away with "trespassing on Crown Land." Mr. Hsueh imposed the maximum penalty, viz. $100.

SUDDEN ATTACK OF DYSENTERY CURED.

A prominent lady of Brooklyn, New York, U.S.A., writes to inquire where she can obtain Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. She says: "While stopping at a ranch in South Dakota I was taken ill of what seemed to be cholera. They gave me some of this medicine and it cured me. I brought a bottle home and have just used the last of it to-day." For sale by all chemists, and every druggist.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

A theatrical troupe known as the Zig-zags is now on its way to Hongkong from Bangkok. The company consists of clowns, musical artists, dancers, strong men, etc., and the advance agent promises a good entertainment.

Chas. Pih, the Minister who was sent from Peking to inquire into the currency question at Canton, arrived in the Colony to-day. He has been to Canton and is now on his way north. What Chas. thinks of subsidiary coin has not yet been divulged.

The Volunteer Sergeants' Mess had a jolly time on Saturday evening when they entertained the Royal Garrison Artillery Sergeants' Mess. Most of the Volunteer officers, including Major Chapman, attended and a progressive whist drive and billiard tournament—Volunteers v. R.G.A.—were contested. The visitors came out on top in the whist drive but the Volunteers reversed the positions when it came to billiards. The toast of the R. G. A. Sergeants' Mess, proposed by Sgt.-Major Higby, was replied to by Master-Gunner Torr, and Major Chapman replied to the toast of the Volunteer officers, also proposed by Sergeant-Major Higby.

According to the Birmingham Post, Mr. Balfour has consented to preside at the great Unionist banquet which, under the auspices of the "1900 Club," is to be given to the Colonial Premiers at the Albert Hall in April. It is seldom the Albert Hall is selected for a banquet, but the large numbers of Unionists, both Peers and Commons, who are expected to be present, fully warrant this unusual step being taken. It may be questioned whether any entertainment remotely approaching this in importance will be organised by supporters of the Government, who apparently are very timid of encouraging the Premiers to make more public utterances than may be absolutely necessary during their stay in this country.

The Portuguese community has sustained a great loss in the demise of Dr. Francisco de Paula Soares, who passed away at his residence "Villa Branca," Robinson Road, on Saturday evening. The deceased was one of the oldest, if not the oldest, Portuguese resident in the Colony, at the time of his death being 83. Dr. Soares was born in Macao and his long life has been spent in administering to the wants of his countrymen. Both as a pharmacist and later on as a surgeon. In his young days Dr. Soares volunteered for service under Colonel Mesquita, to defend Macao from a contemplated invasion by the Chinese and was among those stationed in the "Passaleiro Fort." From Dr. Watson, an English physician practicing in Macao, Dr. Soares learnt much pertaining to surgery and by the time Dr. Watson retired Dr. Soares was quite competent to take up his master's practice. His speciality was the treatment of the complaints of children and his unceasing attention and genial manner made him beloved by the youngsters, and he gained the name of the "Children's Doctor." He established the Oriental Dispensary in Hongkong after having become qualified to practice medicine here, and he devoted a great deal of his time to administering to the poor. During the plague epidemic he worked hard and gained many friends by his energy. He died comparatively poor, but during his lifetime he did not labour for the sake of making money, but for the joy of alleviating the troubles of his fellow men.

London, March 22.

News from Cairo says that owing to the lack of a suitable site for another large reservoir, it has been decided to raise the Assuan dam seven metres, at a cost of £1,500,000, to be completed in 1912.

The addition will irrigate a million more acres, increasing the cotton crop by 24,000,000 per annum.

The addition will involve the further submerging of the Temple of Philae and other monuments.

CLAIM FOR RENT.

Plaintiff Not Satisfied.

In the Supreme Court this morning the Chun Wah firm sued M. Sternberg for $42, being the rent of a portion of 51 Queen's Road, from March 11 to 17.

Mr C. F. Dixon appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr E. J. Grist for the defendants.

Mr Dixon stated that at the period in question the premises at 51 Queen's Road were rented by the plaintiffs and they sub-let the first floor to the defendant, who wanted to open up and sell post-cards there.

Defendant saw the landlord who referred him to the plaintiffs. Defendant then saw the plaintiffs and arranged to go into possession on the 11th of March and pay rent at the rate of $6 per day. He went into possession but did not pay plaintiffs the rent although continually asked to do so. Finally he informed them that he did not intend to pay, as they were not his landlords.

Mr Grist explained that defendant did not make any arrangement with the plaintiffs, did not even know that plaintiffs were tenants. He asked for the landlord, went and saw him, and after some argument as to rent agreed to take possession on April 18 for $180 per month. It was then arranged that defendant should go into immediate possession in order to get the place ready for occupation. As no agreement had been arrived at between the plaintiffs and the defendant the former had no justification in suing for rent; he could sue for use and occupation, but it was the Plaintiff's case (Mr A. G. Wise) held there was no agreement Mr Grist submitted that plaintiff could not recover even for use and occupation.

The Plaintiff Judge non-suited plaintiffs, it was one man's word against the other.

THE VOLUNTEERS.

Annual Inspection.

The annual inspection of the Hongkong Volunteer Corps by His Excellency Major-General R. G. Broadwood, C.B., commanding the troops in South China, took place on Saturday afternoon at Causeway Bay.

The Volunteer Artillery Corps mustered on the Volunteer parade ground at 3.45, under the command of Major A. Chapman, Acting Commandant of the Corps. There were twelve machine-gun detachments and an Infantry Corps.

In all there were 226 men present composed as follows:—Artillery Corps, 137, Engineers 36, Troop 26 and Staff 5. The officers present were:—Major A. Chapman, Captains A. J. Thomson (R. G. A.), D. MacDonald, G. P. Lambart, J. H. W. Armstrong, T. Skinner and W. A. Crake, Lieutenants W. Nicholson, M. S. Northcote, J. A. T. Plummer, H. W. Kennett, E. D. C. Wolfe, J. S. Gubbay, J. T. Haydon, C. H. Ross and C. F. Forsyth (Surgeon). Headed by the band of the Third Middlesex Regiment the Volunteers marched to Causeway Bay, via Garden Road, Queen's Road, Arsenal Street and the Praya Street, and met the Hongkong Volunteer Mounted Troop at the ground, where, by the way, there was a large number of residents and Chinese awaiting for the inspection.

His Excellency Major-General Broadwood, accompanied by his A.D.C.'s, arrived on the ground promptly to time and inspected the men, after which the entire body, headed by the Mounted Troop, marched past the reviewing base. After one or two similar evolutions the guns were brought into action and for close upon an hour the men were kept hard at work, advancing, retreating, etc. It was something of a surprise to most of the Volunteers, who expected nothing more than the usual formalities connected with an inspection, viz., simply marching past the reviewing base and going through one or two manoeuvres with the guns.

At the conclusion the Artillery detachments were formed up facing the General and his suite, with the Mounted Troop at right angles to them on the right and the Infantry Company at right angles on the left, forming as it were three sides of a square, the General's party occupying the fourth side. Then Major-General Broadwood addressed the men. He complimented them briefly on their smart appearance, but regretted that he had not had much opportunity of seeing them at work in the field. He hoped, however, to see them at work later on. Referring to the machine-guns which recently took place His Excellency pointed out that as they were upon a small scale he could not avail himself of the Volunteers and he expressed the hope of being able to employ them next year.

This remark brought a smile to the faces of some of the Volunteers, who have a lively recollection of the last time they were engaged with the regular troops, when a bitterly cold night was spent on the heights of Wong-nui-chung.

Continuing, His Excellency the Major-General dealt with volunteering in general, remarking that everybody, civilian or soldier, who took any interest in Imperial matters recognised that no nation could be entirely independent of volunteering. "Arbitration and diplomacy might do much towards conciliating nations but arbitration was useless unless in the background there was force—trained force. The Hongkong Volunteers by their display that day had shown that they had devoted a great deal of time to learn soldierly, even though they were fully occupied with their ordinary work."

The men marched back to headquarters, taking the guns with them, and arrived there somewhere about 7 p.m. Major Chapman, before dismissing them, commented upon the turnout, which he thought was most creditable. The demeanour of the men on parade also called forth a comment from the Major, who remarked that the had never before seen Volunteers so steady on parade. He was sorry that one or two had not turned out.

ROYAL HONGKONG YACHT CLUB.

Yesterday the tenth Club Race of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club was sailed under conditions that were again disappointing. The wind first set in from the north-east very lightly, ultimately it veered to the east, and later came up from the south-west. Chums were frequent, and to get a substantial lead did not profit any particular boat. To use an Irishman the race was not won until they were finished.

The course was a had one for the conditions prevailing at this time of the year, being from the Police Pier at Kowloon, round Channel Rocks, to the north of Stonecutters' Island, and round a mark off Chungking Island.

CHAMPIONSHIP CLASS.—Variable southerly winds prevailed when Dione and Vernon started in this race. Vernon got the best of the start by holding the windward position and established a slight lead which she held to the Channel Rocks. After rounding, spinners were set and the wind being very variable Dione ran into a calm. Vernon holding a good wind soon established a comfortable lead and reached Tai-nai-tai Point about ten minutes ahead of Dione. After rounding the point she ran into a calm where she stayed until Dione picked her up, and the latter keeping nearer the shore found the wind there, and gradually drew ahead, passing the east point of Stonecutters' about a minute ahead of Vernon. Some tricky sailing here ensued and Vernon keeping towards the island close inshore picked up a southerly breeze and again slipped past Dione. As soon as Stonecutters' was passed a fine south-westerly was met and both boats bowed away towards the mark off Chungking, and Vernon rounded slightly ahead of Dione. It was now a close-fought homeward in a fairly strong breeze. Vernon outstriking Dione established a comfortable lead and when off Yum-tai the boats split tacks, Vernon going about on the port tack and Dione standing on the starboard tack. The wind failed Vernon, and Dione, by a great stroke of luck, picked up an off-shore wind, and, sailing very fast, soon was the leading boat, but the wind being very variable it was still a question of who would cross the line first. However Vernon got left in light air and calms after a somewhat exciting race Dione crossed over the line just ahead of Vernon, thus securing the championship of the season, Vernon taking second prize, and Maudie, who has sailed in the last two races, scoring the third place.

ONE-DESIGN CLASS.—Actually only light air obtained when the five boats of this fleet got away, and in an endeavour to get some of the puffs that were seen at various spots the boats separated early. Kathleen, Spritend and Maudie edged towards the Hongkong shore, whilst Colleen and Bonito bore towards Hung Hom. Those on the Hongkong shore got the advantage of a fairly steady breeze first. Kathleen picked it up early and crept well up to windward, whilst Spritend and Maudie, believing the wind would be steady, stood with easy sheets up mid-channel and got becalmed. Channel Rock was rounded eventually with about ten minutes separating Kathleen first and Colleen last. Kathleen's advantage did not last long, however, as she got in a calm off the Police Pier and the following boats were able to overhaul her. The race actually started from this point. Getting out of the calm about the same time all boats were well together on the run to Stonecutters' in an easterly wind, and when this island had been passed, a south-westerly of good strength was met with first by Kathleen and later by the other boats. The mark was made pretty well in a bunch, Kathleen being some lengths ahead. Colleen, Bonito and Spritend rounded close to one another and met a strong tide and drying wind. The three boats looked like drifting on the mark. Spritend, who tried to squeeze through between Bonito and the mark, touched and hauled her racing flag down, whilst Colleen and Bonito, and later Maudie, who got into trouble with the strong current and lost considerable way, set out after Kathleen. The wind looked like keeping up, but bearing the centre of the harbour it died. Kathleen suffered through standing for the Hongkong shore, and Colleen, working the centre channel, made up the distance and won her first club race this season. Bonito and Maudie made up a good deal of time though they met with variable and baffling winds near the wharves which threw them back again. Kathleen finished second, Bonito third and Maudie fourth. The times of finishing were:—

Colleen ... .. 3 15 12
Kathleen ... .. 3 17 0
Bonito ... .. 3 23 0
Maudie ... .. 3 26 0

Football.

There was little doing in sporting circles on Saturday afternoon, owing to the inspection of the Volunteer Corps taking place. Only one football match was played—Hongkong Club v. Y.M.C.A.—and both teams were without the services of some of their best players. The Club were without W. H. Williams, E. Humphreys, G. E. Morrell, F. E. Ansell and H. C. Gray, and the Y.M.C.A. were without J. McCubbin, E. Coyne, C. O. Hickling and P. Gray. As a consequence the match was not a good one and the Club won by four goals to two. Western (3) and Miller (1) scored for the Club, and Platt and Le Grou one each scored for the Y.M.C.A.

A HOME MATCH.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL FOR CHINESE AT SHANGHAI.

(To the Editor of the CHINA MAIL.)

Sir,—I am not aware who your correspondent at Shanghai is, but I certainly think that the statements he made in his letter to you, dated February 28, regarding the Public School for Chinese in Shanghai, should not be allowed to pass without comment. I have never come across so many wilful misstatements in a single paragraph. There may be some difference of opinion among the ratepayers as to the necessity for a school of this kind—there was when the proposal to start it was first mooted. But it is rather wide of the mark to say that the promoters of the school did not take the trouble to ascertain whether their native friends were as enthusiastic over the project as they were themselves, when no less than Taels 37,000 was subscribed by the local gentry for the erection of the school buildings. There have been two head-masters since the school was started, and it is true that they were unsatisfactory. But the present head-master, Mr G. S. F. Kemp, has been a master at the school ever since it was opened, and under his management the attendance is rapidly increasing. It is absolutely untrue that the English staff resigned because their representations for higher salaries were refused. The reason for the resignation of the first head-master was never made public, but it is an open secret, and it was not anything to do with the question of salary. It is also true that the fees have been considerably reduced since the school was opened, but it was not with any idea of "undercutting" missionary schools, but because the original fees were found to be too high for the class it was intended to reach. It is absolutely false to say that the reduction of fees brought the number of scholars up to 200, "but the little boom soon collapsed and now the number of scholars is very far below this record." At the end of November last there were 248 scholars on the register, and last week the average daily attendance was close on 300. It remains to be seen whether there will be any discussion concerning the school at the ratepayers' meeting, but if there is it will not be on the grounds alleged by your correspondent. Any public institution is liable to criticism, and so long as critics confine themselves to facts no one can raise any objection. But I think that absolutely unfounded charges, such as those brought by your correspondent, should not be allowed to pass unnoticed or unrefuted, as they are calculated to convey an absolutely erroneous impression to those who read them.

I enclose my card.

Yours &c.,

"A SHANGHAI JOURNALIST."

MATCHES AND FIRES.

Who bears the Loss?

The Kung Tai firm built a matchbox (No. 1) for a Chinaman at Mongkok and Nam Din, an Indian contractor, hired them to build one for him near by. Nam Din already had a matchbox (No. 1) close to the other. After the third matchbox was built Nam Din went into possession of it, and while in possession a fire broke out in the old matchbox (No. 1) occupied by Nam Din and spread to the new one (No. 3) it being destroyed. By this time the Chinaman's lease for the other matchbox (No. 2) had expired, and he went out. Nam Din then took possession of it without plaintiffs' authority and when plaintiffs' men came to remove the matchbox defendant drove them away. That was the story told by Mr R. A. Harding to the Puisse Judge (Mr A. G. Wise) this afternoon at the Summary Court, when he appeared on behalf of the Kung Tai firm. The latter's claim was as follows:—$44.80, rent of new matchbox (No. 3) for 4 months; $120, value of materials destroyed by fire; and $20 for use and occupation of No. 2 matchbox (that formerly occupied by the Chinaman, which defendant took forcible possession of). Plaintiffs made a complaint to the police court but were advised by the Inspector to bring the present action.

Evidence was called and plaintiff stated that in the event of fire defendant had agreed to pay $120.

The Puisse Judge—How are you to succeed, it is a verbal agreement—one man's word against another's?

Mr Harding—I have other witnesses who were present when the arrangement was made.

Later on it was pointed out that the fire broke out in No. 1 and spread to No. 3. The Puisse Judge—You must have direct origin—No. 1 has nothing to do with it.

Mr Harding—Our place has been burned down and we ask for its value.

The Puisse Judge—You must have a policy; you cannot arrange between yourselves in this way. In the first place you are up against the Insurance Companies' Act. If you are going to have verbal agreements, they would each burn the other's house down. The place would be in ruins in a week.

Further evidence was led and the Puisse Judge remarked—The fire thing is absurd. It is the most absurd thing I ever came across to set up a verbal agreement without enquiry or anything else; I am not at all clear that it is not illegal. With regard to the $44.80 I do not think the agreement is proved. An agreement for rent has to be proved conclusively; it should be in writing. Now, with regard to the $20 I am against you at present, but if you like I will adjourn to find out who is in occupation and if he is in occupation I will hear what you have to say.

The case was adjourned until Thursday.
